

Project Manager Construction

Description

Up to £120,000 package per annum to include Personal Travel & 10% Bonus

Our client is a Prestigious Development Management organisation, operating throughout London & Europe. They require an ambitious Project Manager from a Construction Management or Developer background to join their highly successful management team in London.

You will have the necessary entrepreneurial skills to embrace the entire development process on a luxury new build residential scheme, from design development, programming, procurement and ultimately controlling the delivery of the project, through to a successful completion.

Previous Development/Project Management experience is an essential prerequisite gained on the fit out of prime or ultra-prime residences in the UK. Construction Industry experience is essential (managing the build on behalf a client organisation or consultancy). It's likely you will have a formal qualification/training in Construction Management, Architecture or Quantity Surveying.

This is a permanent opportunity and benefits include a generous basic, personal bonus incentive, personal travel, private health cover and pension contribution. The remuneration figure quoted is realistic (subject to experience) and assumes a basic salary of up to £105,000 plus a guaranteed £10,000 bonus and travel.

Alternatively, our client would consider someone on a fixed term contract for the project duration (minimum 24 months)
