Construction Project Manager

Description

Design-Led Construction Project Manager | Façades & Heritage Projects | London

Salary up to 95,000 plus travel, benefits package and bonus

We're looking for a technically strong Project Manager with a flair for design and experience delivering façades, heritage or complex external envelope projects in London.

You will lead and coordinate all design activity, working closely with architects, engineers, and specialist subcontractors to ensure robust, buildable, and programme-aligned designs. Your focus will be on quality, detail, and practical delivery, balancing architectural intent with construction reality.

What we're looking for:

- Project management experience on façades, stonework, cladding, or heritage projects
- Design programme management and coordination skills
- Ability to challenge and refine designs while maintaining buildability
- Strong communication with clients, architects, engineers, and subcontractors
- Commercial awareness and disciplined documentation

If you are a design-focused Construction Project Manager who thrives on technical challenge and high-quality delivery, this is your next move. Apply below or upload your CV in strict confidence through our website: quoting the reference Construction Project Manager JP1018
