Description

Estimator Specialist Contracting London

Up to £60,000 plus benefits package

Our client is a leading specialist sub-contractor that is highly successful in the delivery of building packages, typically between £2m and £10million. They are engaged by some of the UKs foremost contractors on major projects in London, to include high-rise, retained façade, newbuild and heritage works.

They are now seeking an Estimator to join their team and would be interested in speaking to applicants from either an Estimating or Quantity Surveying background and from a main contracting background. You could already be fulfilling a similar function or at a cross roads in your career and looking to potentially develop into Estimating. They operate a flexible approach to tendering which includes competitive, traditional bills of quantities, design and build as well as spec and drawing and have their own in-house design team.

You will be able to demonstrate a proven work history in the 'building' industry, in either main contracting or specialist contracting environment (minimum 3 years plus experience working in the UK), pricing jobs up to £5million+ in value. At interview you will be able to illustrate, giving examples of projects where you have aided the bid development process.

This is an opportunity for someone looking to forge a career with a progressive company that recognises and rewards their staff for personal achievement.

Candidates will ideally be degree qualified in either Civil Engineering or Quantity Surveying and must be living within a commutable distance of South East London.
