Project Manager Construction

Description

Project Manager Construction | Specialist Contractor Facades London

Up to £65,000 + Benefits

The company is well known within the field of building facades, curtain walling, roofing and cladding and offer clients a 'total envelope solution', with a first-class reputation for the delivery of the entire construction process from specification, design through to installation on landmark projects throughout London.

Projects are typically commercial by nature and include new build, retained facades, heritage work and complex structures. You will have a proven work history in either Main Contracting or Specialist Contracting, with demonstrable experience both on and off site, pre & post construction is essential, having managed major cladding packages.

A high level of written and verbal communication is required and it is likely you will be qualified to degree level (Construction Management) or minimum HNC. You will report directly to a Contracts Manager and work closely with the design, QA and cost management teams. As Project Manager you will chair meetings and report back on progress and health and safety in line with the company's policies.

If you wish to join a well-established company who have a strong order book and be a major part of their scaled expansion, then apply below or upload your CV through our website in strict confidence quoting the reference: Project Manager Facades JP758
