

Project Manager Construction

Description

Up to £75,000 per annum (Net Basic) + Vehicle, Housing Allowance & Health Insurance

This construction company, a main contracting organisation, active in the emerging markets is experiencing an unprecedented demand for their services in East Africa.

They are looking for a Project Manager to be based on a major new build housing development comprising both affordable (community housing), social housing, a sewage treatment facility and associated infrastructure (1000 units +). The key criteria are:

Prior experience of new build housing/urban development projects (using block work & RC Frame construction methods), preferably gained internationally/overseas. An ability to adopt a high level of responsibility from the outset. It's likely you will be technically qualified, in either Construction Management or Engineering. A strong command of the English is a must, both written and spoken.

The salary quoted is the basic package, in addition they do offer shared accommodation or an allowance towards a private lease, a hire vehicle, flights home and private medical cover/insurance. Annual bonus or end of project bonus (based on evaluation and project performance) Our client is privately owned and managed and they can offer long term career opportunities in the region.
