Senior Building Surveyor

Description

Senior Building Surveyor to work on Cladding remediation (high rise projects), Development Management Consultancy in London

Up to £75,000 plus benefits & Profit Share

An opportunity for a Senior Building Surveyor to work for a long-established independent Construction and Development Management organisation who are looking to expand their Building Surveying operations within the specialist field of cladding.

This is a new position that would suit a versatile Senior Building Surveyor who has the drive and ambition to work autonomously and gain exposure on some exciting regeneration schemes to include repurposing landmark buildings and redeveloping brownfield sites for both public and private sector housing, with a particular emphasis on fire prevention and external cladding in line with the government's new building remediation fund.

It's likely you will be qualified and from a technical building surveying background, working for either a building surveying practice or construction consultancy. Previous experience of residential/housing schemes working closely with local authorities and planning bodies would be a distinct advantage. In addition, the ability to identify new work streams or possible opportunities to increase their portfolio.

The role could offer the flexibility to work from home or from our clients well-appointed offices in central London (just North of the River). This is a permanent opportunity offering long term career prospects and the chance to build a team around you, managing and mentoring junior surveyors throughout the APC process.

Candidates must already be living within a daily commute of London and ideally MRICS or in the process of attaining.
