

Senior Project Manager

Description

SENIOR PROJECT MANAGER – CLIENT SIDE – CONSTRUCTION – HOTELS – LONDON

Up to £100,000 basic, plus personal travel & bonus incentive

Our client is a prestigious development management organisation who have been appointed as the client's representative on a flagship scheme comprising a new build hotel, residence and retail element in central London.

We are looking for a 'Construction Project Manager' not a 'Hotelier', with a formal qualification/training in either Civil Engineering, Construction Management, Architecture, or possibly Quantity Surveying, but you must have a solid foundation in building major hospitality projects. Development / Project Management experience gained with a leading consultancy or developer is an essential prerequisite as a Senior Project Manager on major hospitality projects.

You will have the necessary entrepreneurial skills to embrace the entire development process, hitting the ground running on a live project, from design development, programming, procurement and overseeing the delivery of the project, through to successful completion.

This is a permanent opportunity and benefits include a generous basic, personal bonus incentive, personal travel, private health cover and pension contribution. The remuneration figure quoted is realistic (subject to experience) and assumes a basic salary of up to £100,000 plus a guaranteed £10,000 bonus and travel.

Alternatively, our client would consider someone on a fixed term contract
